

JUDGE ONANUBOSI ATTENDS NATIONAL CONSORTIUM

Third District Magistrate Judge Dayo O. Onanubosi recently represented the State of Idaho and the Judiciary at a national consortium. Judge Onanubosi, who sits in Canyon County, attended the National Consortium on Racial and Ethnic Fairness in the Courts.

The consortium was hosted by the Nebraska Minority Justice Committee and was held in Omaha, Nebraska on May 9-12, 2012. Since 1988 the National Consortium for Racial and Ethnic Fairness has been working with the highest courts of each state to create commission and task forces to examine the treatment of minorities in those courts, and to provide technical assistance and expertise on the subject of racial and ethnic fairness in the courts.

At its annual meeting each year, the National Consortium brings together thought leader and delegates of state justice systems from around the country to share their collective knowledge about best practices within their court systems for achieving fairness and access to justice for all. The conference offers programs on a broad range of topics across four primary areas: addressing language barriers, enhancing diversity and cultural competence, addressing racial disparity and building capacity to effect change.

Thank you for your dedicated work and willingness to share such knowledge with your colleagues, Judge Onanubosi!
