

SUMMARY STATEMENT

Massey v. ConAgra Foods, Inc., Docket No. 40504

Karrin and Mark Massey appealed the dismissal of their products liability case against ConAgra Foods. The Masseys had claimed that a poultry pot pie manufactured by ConAgra had contained salmonella, causing injury to Karrin Massey and her unborn daughter. The Bannock County district court ruled that the Masseys had not proven a product defect and granted summary judgment against them. The Supreme Court vacated the judgment of dismissal and remanded the case for further proceedings.
