

SUMMARY STATEMENT

Bell v. Idaho Department of Labor, Docket No. 41592

Charles C. Bell appealed a decision of the Idaho Industrial Commission holding that he willfully made false statements or willfully failed to report material facts regarding his working hours and earnings in order to obtain unemployment benefits to which he was not entitled. The Supreme Court affirmed the Commission's decision, finding it to be supported by substantial and competent evidence.