PER CURIAM

Roberta Suzanne Grooms was found guilty of felony injury to a child. I.C. § 18-1501(1). The district court sentenced Grooms to a unified term of five years, with a minimum period of confinement of one and one-half years. However, the district court suspended the sentence and placed Grooms on probation. Grooms appeals, arguing that her sentence is excessive.¹

Sentencing is a matter for the trial court's discretion. Both our standard of review and the factors to be considered in evaluating the reasonableness of the sentence are well established and need not be repeated here. See State v. Hernandez, 121 Idaho 114, 117-18, 822 P.2d 1011, 1014-15 (Ct. App. 1991); State v. Lopez, 106 Idaho 447, 449-51, 680 P.2d 869, 871-73 (Ct. App. 1984); State v. Toohill, 103 Idaho 565, 568, 650 P.2d 707, 710 (Ct. App. 1982). When reviewing the length of a sentence, we consider the defendant's entire sentence. State v. Oliver, 144 Idaho 722, 726, 170 P.3d 387, 391 (2007). Applying these standards, and having reviewed the record in this case, we cannot say that the district court abused its discretion.

Therefore, Grooms's judgment of conviction and sentence are affirmed.

¹ Grooms was also found guilty of misdemeanor injury to a child. She was sentenced to 180 days in jail. Her sentence was suspended and she was placed on probation for two years. However, Grooms does not challenge this judgment of conviction or sentence on appeal.
