PER CURIAM

Michael Edward Anderson pled guilty to unlawful possession of a firearm. I.C. § 18-3316. In exchange for his guilty plea, an additional charge was dismissed and the State agreed not to pursue a deadly weapon or persistent violator enhancement. The district court sentenced Anderson to a unified term of five years with a minimum period of confinement of two years. Anderson

and BRAILSFORD, Judge

filed an I.C.R. 35 motion, which the district court denied. Anderson appeals, arguing that his sentence is excessive.¹

Sentencing is a matter for the trial court's discretion. Both our standard of review and the factors to be considered in evaluating the reasonableness of the sentence are well established and need not be repeated here. See State v. Hernandez, 121 Idaho 114, 117-18, 822 P.2d 1011, 1014-15 (Ct. App. 1991); State v. Lopez, 106 Idaho 447, 449-51, 680 P.2d 869, 871-73 (Ct. App. 1984); State v. Toohill, 103 Idaho 565, 568, 650 P.2d 707, 710 (Ct. App. 1982). When reviewing the length of a sentence, we consider the defendant's entire sentence. State v. Oliver, 144 Idaho 722, 726, 170 P.3d 387, 391 (2007). Applying these standards, and having reviewed the record in this case, we cannot say that the district court abused its discretion.

Therefore, Anderson's judgment of conviction and sentence are affirmed.

Anderson also pled guilty to and was sentenced for misdemeanor domestic assault. However, that judgment of conviction and sentence are not challenged on appeal.
