Ada County Receives National Jury Innovation Award

The Ada County Jury Office will host a public celebration Oct. 18 of its efforts to improve the jury service experience.

The National Center for State Courts recently announced the county is the recipient of the 2024 G. Thomas Munsterman Award for Jury Innovation.

The award recognizes states, local courts, organizations and individuals who have made significant improvements or innovations in jury procedures, operations and practices.

NCSC particularly highlighted Ada County's remodeled jury room, use of technology, financial assistance for jurors and community partnerships.

"We are honored to receive this award. But, we're most honored to be able to give Ada County residents the best possible jury experience we can," said Randy Rutland, Ada County jury commissioner.

Court staff will receive the award during an event at noon MT Oct. 18 at the Ada County Jury Assembly Room on the fourth floor of the Ada County Courthouse in Boise. The public is invited to attend.

Press questions about jury service in Ada County should be directed to the Trial Court Administrator's Office, 208-287-7500 or tca@adacounty.id.gov.
