

Helen Harberts has worked in criminal justice since 1983. She has served as a prosecutor in rural Northern California, and as a Chief Probation Officer in CA, and in Houston Texas. She is a licensed attorney, and was a sworn peace officer. She has focused on "what works" throughout her journey in criminal justice, and focused on treatment court programs as a way to address a previously untreatable population in our justice system(s). She holds a Masters degree, law degree, and practiced law exclusively in treatment courts for over 5 years. She has written curricula, authored, or co-authored best practices materials for NADCP and NDCI, and regularly trains justice system professionals on a variety of topics. In 2013, Helen was entered into the Goldstein Hall of Fame for the National Association of Drug Court Professionals. Now retired, she enjoys training, travel, baking cheesecakes, rescuing senior cats, and her garden.
